

Benjamin Barmaan is a current resident in the Emergency Medicine program at Virginia Commonwealth University Hospital System. Prior to this position, he received a Bachelor of Arts in History at the University of California Los Angeles with a minor in Human Complex Systems. He then received a Master of Science in Global Medicine at the Keck School of Medicine of the University of Southern California while also pursuing course work at the USC Marshall of Business. He completed his medical school training at Virginia Commonwealth University School of Medicine, earning his Doctor of Medicine degree in 2017. He completed a general surgery preliminary position at Virginia Commonwealth University Hospital System in 2018. His interests include pre-hospital medicine, global medicine, and critical care medicine.